John Frost joins Doane staff

JOHN DAWES
Staff Writer

Doane University welcomes the new Vice President of Enrollment Management and Marketing John Frost. Frost will start serving students on all campuses beginning Nov. 7.

Frost previously worked at the College of Saint Mary in Omaha, Nebraska, where he was Vice President for Enrollment Services. He also has 10 years of experience in admissions, leadership positions and enrollment management with multiple colleges, including Southern Illinois University, Bellevue University, Webster University, Metropolitan Community College and Kaplan University.

"I'm looking forward to spreading the good news about our university and how we will continue to create future leaders globally in the ever-changing world of higher education. I know we are in an excellent position to lead others to reach their educational goals and positively impact the students we serve and their communities," Frost said.

Frost's position will involve recruitment, admissions, financial aid and marketing functions. He will also help be responsible for planning, implementing and executing effective data-driven strategies to attract and enroll residential undergraduate first-year, transfer, graduate, online and non-residential students. Doane hopes that Frost's hiring will help continue making Doane a more inclusive campus.

Before working in higher education, Frost worked with Lincoln CBS affiliate KOLN/KGIN as a reporter, editor and photojournalist. Frost also now serves as Chair and Spokesperson of the Multiculturalism and Diversity Committee for the Nebraska Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admission Officers (NACRAO).

designing recruiting plans for all types of learners made him the perfect candidate to meet Doane's current needs," Doane President Roger Hughes said.

Doane partners with universities

ABRIANNA MILLER
Editor-in-Chief

Doane University has established partnerships with Southeast Community College (SCC) and Northeast Community College (NCC) for students wishing to pursue an advanced degree from their respective colleges.

Doane and SCC have created what they call an "A's to B's" partnership. This will greatly reduce the cost of students transferring from SCC to Doane.

"... New transfers [can] receive either reduced tuition while attending Doane courses in Lincoln or online, or a grant to attend Doane's residential campus in Crete," the Doane University website reads.

According to the Doane website, SCC and Doane have previously had a loose agreement of relatively the same procedure, but this formal process will allow students to transfer "to many more academic programs, athletics and performing arts."

The agreement also provides transfer students from SCC with early orientation and advising.

Doane and NCC have already been engaged in the same agreement since 2019, and Doane University President Roger Hughes renewed the agreement with the partnering university.

Renewal of this agreement may expand the degrees eligible for transfer, according to the Doane University website.

The agreement between Doane and NCC also includes early orientation and advising, as well as eligibility in several extracurricular activities.

For more information, visit the Doane University website or doane.edu/admission-and-aid/transfer-to-doane.

Nebraska COVID-19 update

JOSE VILLALPANDO
News Editor

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), the level of community transmission has raised to medium for Saline County as of Oct. 17, 2022.

"Stay up to date with COVID-19 vaccines. Get tested if you have symptoms. Wear a mask if you have symptoms, a positive test or exposure to someone with COVID-19," the CDC reports. "You may choose to wear a mask at any time as an additional precaution to protect yourself and others."

From Oct. 20 on, the CDC will be updating case data on Thursdays, on a weekly basis.

Doane does not have a mask mandate, meaning that students are able to walk maskless inside buildings on campus at their discretion. Even with that said, it is still recommended to wear a mask when social distancing is not possible.

Faculty can still request students wear masks, but cannot require them unless they are meeting in personal spaces, such as an office, or students are working in close proximity to each other, such as labs.

Public health areas such as in the Student Health Office still require masks to be worn.

Saline County has reported 13 current COVID-19 cases as of Oct. 17, 2022.

There are 62.9 percent of the Saline County population equal to or over the age of 12 in Saline County that have been vaccinated, marking 54.5 percent of the total population as vaccinated.

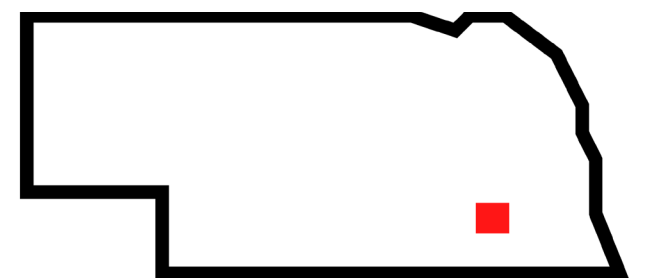

Although there are no current indoor mask mandates for Lincoln-Lancaster county, county residents can still expect to have to wear masks in some facilities, such as hospitals and airports.

According to an email from University Communications on Aug. 19, Doane is now following new CDC guidelines that state anyone who has been exposed to COVID-19 does not need to be quarantined so long as they are not symptomatic. Individuals with no symptoms will need to self-monitor for symptoms and wear their mask for ten days. It is also recommended to get tested for COVID-19 on the fifth day of self-monitoring.

"Free tests are available (while supplies last) at the Student Health Office in the lower level of Perry, residence halls (in the community assistant offices), in athletic training offices and the student affairs office," the email also read.

Students who test positive or feel symptomatic must self-isolate and not attend classes, practice or other activities. Students must also contact the Student Health Office either by email at studenthealth@doane.edu or by calling 402.826.8265.

If a symptomatic student has not yet taken a test, they will need to do so with a rapid at-home test, writing their name and the date and time of the test on the card or on a paper placed next to the test to document it for Student Health.

This information was gathered from the Doane COVID-19 protocols and the CDC COVID-19 Data Tracker.

New residence hall update

KYLIE HUGHES
Copy Desk Chief

Over the past few weeks there have been noticeable changes in the construction process of the new residence hall on the north side of campus. During the summer, the two residence buildings that were previously located there, Colonial and Burrage Halls (also known as the Quads), were knocked down. Since that point, the construction has begun with the predicted date that students can move in as January 2024.

According to Director of Facilities Operations and Construction Projects Brian Flesner, the current structure that is visible in the construction site is the start of the building.

“The current structural progress that you can see are the footings and foundation work that will support the building from the lower level,” Flesner said. After this continues to expand, the walls of the residence halls will begin to be built.

In the next few weeks, parts of the new parking lot will be poured.

As of right now, the construction plan is on track, according to Flesner. Due to the lack of rain and moisture, the site work and utility work has been able to progress at a good pace. The residence hall should be substantially completed by November of 2023.

There are no plans for construction to further impact students, after Smith Hall parking lot closed for construction. However, the construction team may have to look into different “parking strategies” as construction progresses and new sections of the new parking lot need to be poured. However, this point is several months away, and students will be updated about any changes.

Until then, construction will continue to move forward.

Any questions can be directed to Flesner at brian.flesner@doane.edu.

Florida university eyeing Sasse

NE Senator sole finalist for presidential search

JOSE VILLALPANDO
News Editor

According to the Tampa Bay Times on Oct. 6, Nebraska U.S. Senator Ben Sasse had become the sole finalist for University of Florida's (UF) presidential role.

The search for candidates for the presidential role at UF had been conducted under a newly created Florida law that keeps the search for the new presidency a secret until deemed appropriate to let the public know.

The main purpose of this law was to “[create] a public-records exemption for information that could identify applicants until near the end of searches, when information about finalists would be released,” according to WUSF Public Media.

Sasse was chosen by unanimous vote by UF's presidential search committee due to his academic prowess and experience as a university president at a small Lutheran college in Nebraska.

UF Board of Trustee and chair of the presidential search committee Rahul Patel, mentioned that the search process was robust and exhaustive.

“The feedback was, for us to take the next step to truly becoming one of the most important universities in the country, we will need a visionary, an innovator and big thinker who would differentiate us from others — a leader who is transformational,” Patel said. “The committee unanimously felt Ben Sasse is a transformational leader.”

Dean of the UF College of Law Laura Rosenbury also sat in the presidential search committee. Rosenbury said that she believes that Sasse would be a staunch advocate for academic freedom.

“What made Ben stand out was his focus on how higher education must transform to keep pace with the changing nature of work and the changing nature of technology and society as a whole,” Rosenbury said.

On the other hand, there have also been multiple critics of Sasse, including UF students who disagree with Sasse's stance on gay marriage.

Editor-in-Chief of The Alligator, UF's independent newspaper, Makiya Seminera spoke to NPR about a protest outside of a Q&A student forum led by Sasse at the university.

Seminera mentioned that the protest that was originally held outside of Emerson Hall eventually moved inside, directly outside of the room in which the forum took place, causing the forum to end early.

“Gay marriage, I would say, is probably the main point that I've heard from speaking with protesters that day and in the days before,” Seminera said. “Specifically, Senator Sasse has said in the past, after Obergefell v. Hodges, which is the Supreme Court case that federally protects the right to same-sex marriage — he called that a disappointment.”

On the other side, Seminera also noted having spoken to conservative groups on campus, who see Sasse as a good candidate.

“We spoke with the UF College Republicans, who put out a statement and said that they are, you know, largely happy with Senator Sasse being the sole finalist, and they've pointed to his academic background,” Seminera said.

Seminera then noted Sasse's response to the protests at the time they were occurring outside of the room.

“Senator Sasse did address the protest in the moment, kind of in jest. He made a joke about how they were chanting in rhythm,” Seminera said. “But he did say at the forum when the protesters were outside the door that although he does not agree with the protesters, he agrees with their constitutional right to be able to protest. Other than that, we haven't personally seen any statements from Senator Sasse about the protest.”

Sasse's acceptance of the candidacy is now met with deliberation on part of the UF Board of Trustees. If accepted by the board, the Florida Board of Governors must then deliberate and decide whether to accept Sasse as well.

If both accept Sasse as the new university president, he will then become the UF's thirteenth president, replacing current UF president Kent Fuchs who announced his planned departure in January after a successor has been appointed.

Russia deploys Shahed kamikaze drones

JOEY WINTON
Managing Editor

In its continued effort to capture all of Ukraine, the Russian military has begun deploying Shahed drones- also known as kamikaze drones.

According to NPR, on Oct. 17 an unidentified number of drones were launched on certain Ukrainian cities, including the capital Kyiv, which resulted in the deaths of at least four people.

Shahed drones are unlike predator drones because instead of being remote controlled, Shahed drones are programmed with coordinates before they are launched. They use GPS to hit their targets. While the drones are unlikely to dramatically turn the tide in Russia's favor, how they were obtained is sparking controversy.

United States officials confirmed that the drones used in the attacks were Iranian, despite Iran continuing to deny its involvement with Russia.

"Iran has time and again declared that it is siding with no side in the Russia-Ukraine war, Iran has not given arms to either warring side," Iran's Foreign Ministry tweeted in response to the allegations.

While Iran blatantly denies supplying Russia with drones, Ukraine's government estimates that Russia has ordered 2,400 Shahed drones.

Also on Oct. 17, Russia and Ukraine participated in the first all-female prisoner swap since the war began in February. Business Insider reports that Russia exchanged 108 Ukrainian women in return for 110 Russian prisoners. Of the 108 Ukrainian women released, 37 were evacuees from a Mariupol steel plant, 11 were officers and 85 were privates and non-commissioned officers.

Meanwhile, Russia is having to deal with the aftermath of a military aircraft crashing into a residential area.

According to the BBC, on Oct. 17 an apartment block in the southern city of Yeysk was struck by a Su-34 fighter bomber leaving at least four dead and 25 injured.

In a statement issued shortly after the crash, Russia's Defense Ministry stated the plane was on a training flight when one of its engines caught fire. The statement also reads that the pilots in the aircraft ejected before the crash, and none of the pilots were killed.

favoring decriminalization and legalization.

On Oct. 13, President Joe Biden announced that he is pardoning all prior federal offenses of simple marijuana possession.

CNN reports that Biden tasked the Department of Health and Human Services and Attorney General Merrick Garland to "expeditiously" review how marijuana is scheduled under federal law.

Currently, marijuana is classified as a Schedule 1 Drug, which puts it in the same category as heroin and LSD.

In his announcement, Biden also encouraged state governors to take similar action to begin in jail for using or possessing marijuana. It's legal in many states, and criminal records for marijuana possession have led to needless barriers to employment, housing and educational opportunities," Biden said in a video announcing the action.

While this is not total decriminalization, it is the first significant step taken by a United States President in the fight for changing how marijuana is handled. According to the Associated Press, multiple states are attempting to legalize recreational marijuana as opinions on the substance continue to shift towards Arkansas is proposing a change to the state's constitution that would legalize recreational marijuana which, if passed, would make it the first state in the South to legalize marijuana. Additionally, voters in Maryland, Missouri, North Dakota and South Dakota are also campaigning for legalization.

Salsa Night called a success

KYLIE HUGHES
Life & Culture Editor

Last week on Oct. 11, Doane University Latinx Student Association (DULSA) and the Student Programming Board (SPB) paired up to host

Salsa Night. This night offered food, music and dancing. The music was provided by musicians Daniel Martinez and Oscar Rios Pohirieth. The dancing lessons were provided by Doane alum Sean Murray.

Junior Elsy Sierra thought the event went well and had a good student turnout.

"I think the collaboration between SPB and DULSA really helped the turnout, and the band was amazing, as was Sean," Sierra said.

For Sierra, everyone who attended seemed as though they were having a good time.

This year the event was held in Lakeside whereas the year before was held in the Welcome Center. While, according to Sierra, Lakeside was great for the student traffic and getting people involved, it was hard to find a place to play loteria. Therefore, moving it back to the Welcome Center may be something that DULSA members decide to do in the future.

However, no matter where the location is, they hope to do the event next year, as it seems to be a hit.

"We plan on doing this next year. This event grows every year, and we hope next year is even better," Sierra said.

The Doane Student Programming Board (SPB) is planning multiple events for the near future.

The Intramural Dodgeball Tournament begins on Oct. 23 from 1 to 4 p.m. in Fuhrer Fieldhouse. The tournament will then continue on Oct. 30 and conclude on Nov. 6 with the winning team receiving $25 Casey's gift cards.

A final reminder to sign up for the tournament was sent out on Oct.

18 via students' emails by SPB Doane.

Then, on Oct. 29, SPB is hosting a field trip to Pearson's Pumpkin Place in Eagle, Nebraska from 4 to 8 p.m.

The first 50 tickets are free to Doane Crete students who wish to attend, with the link to the sign up and QR code also within the email sent out by SPB Doane on Oct. 18. A special ticket price of $9 will be available to all students who did not receive a free ticket.

There will be a pumpkin patch, pumpkin launchers, a corn maze, beer garden, hayfort and more at Pearson's Pumpkin Place.

Free transportation to Pearson's Pumpkin Place will also be provided.

Finally, SPB is also presenting a free 18 and over Halloween Dance Party Boo Bash and Baile Hispano costume party at the 1206 Event Center on 1206 Main Avenue. The event will run from 9 p.m. to 12 a.m. on Oct. 29.

There will be a cash bar, "special potions," prizes, costume contests and DJ Maguin Martinez playing at the event.

The costume contests will be for scariest, best duo or group, best overall

Alpha Omega honors 125 years

Fraternity holds 125th year celebration

JOHN DAWES
Staff Writer

The Alpha Omega fraternity of Doane University celebrated its 125th anniversary during Doane's Homecoming weekend. The long-time fraternity was founded in early 1897 in part by Doane alum and later United States Senator Hugh Butler.

The fraternity held a banquet in downtown Crete where around 150 current and former members were present to celebrate the anniversary and bond over shared history. Among those present included several alumni speakers, such as Peabody-winning and Emmy-nominated news producer for NBC Nightly News Ziad Jaber, retired Superintendent of Lincoln Public Schools Steve Joel and Doane University President Roger Hughes.

Alpha Omega fraternity inducted several former members into the Alpha Omega Hall of Fame. One of the three inductees into the Hall of Fame include former Doane Football coach Al Papik. During his time as head coach of Doane's Football team, he won the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) Coach of the Year (1966-1969) and Lincoln Journal Star Coach of the Year (1967 and 1969).

This is not Papik's first

Hall of Fame induction, being inducted into the Crete High School Hall of Fame, Doane College Athletic Hall of Fame, Nebraska Football Hall of Fame, Nebraska Shrine Bowl Hall of Fame and Nebraska Track & Field Hall of Fame. Papik also served as Senior Associate Athletic Director at UNL.

The second inductee is Paul Schelstrate, who serves as Doane University Board of Trustees Chairman.

The final inductee was Gary Horkey, a local business owner who has contributed to the fraternity by hosting and sponsoring fraternity events over the past 40 years.

The final event of the evening was a toast to honor members who passed away, and all attendees joined in song to close out the night.

Aquarius (January 21 - February 19): While it not in your nature to be confrontational, this week might get the best of you. Stand up for your beliefs but do not go overboard.

Pisces (February 20 - March 20): Your social battery has been low lately. Take some time to yourself to recharge. When you feel well rested, get up and take on the world.

Aries (March 21 - April 20): Some things from your past that you thought were long-forgotten are going to be dug up again. Don't let this take control. Move on from the past and look toward the future.

Taurus (April 21 - May 21): Don't let your emotions get the best of you this week. When these emotions get to be too much take a step back and gain perspective.

Gemini (May 22 - June 21): Take time to be with the ones you care about this week. You may not realize how much they mean to you until you spend time with them.

Cancer (June 22 - July 22): Notice the people in your life who may not be blood but are still family. This might be the time to recognize how important they are in your life and to thank them.

Leo (July 23 - August 22): Adventure is the name of the game this week. Take risks and see what is out there. Doing this will get you out of your comfort zone and able to experience new things.

Virgo (August 23 - September 22): It will feel like everything is heightened this week, Virgo. While your problems are going to seem bigger than they actually are, the good things are also going to seem better than they are. Take advantage of that this week.

Libra (September 23 - October 22): You are going to be given new responsibilities this week. Do not shy away from these new tasks. Instead, take this as an opportunity to adapt and to see what you can really handle. You never know where that could lead you.

Scorpio (October 23 - November 21): This week you need to get serious Scorpio. Lately, you've been going about life carefree but it's time to do things that are hard but necessary this week.

Sagittarius (November 22 - December 21): Take some time this week to set boundaries. Whether these boundaries are in your relationships, school or work, they need to be in place for your own success.

Capricorn (December 22 - January 20): What comes around goes around, especially this week. Things are going to catch up to you either in a good way or bad.

Relay for Life begins fundraising efforts

Relay to host upcoming Powderpuff Football game

ISABEL HENSON
Staff Writer

Relay for Life has kicked off their fundraising efforts. They had a meeting at the beginning of the semester to discuss committees and what to expect in the coming weeks.

Throughout the past few weeks, committee members worked the Beige Desk to encourage individuals to sign up and help fundraise for the event in April.

Relay is hosting a Powderpuff Football game on Nov. 4 at 8 p.m. on the football field. Teams of eight are encouraged to sign up. This will be a fun way for the Doane community to raise money and support the cause.

Relay for Life raised over $30,000 last year and hopes to raise over $35,000 this year. They are already off to a great start.

Students take time off from school

ISABEL HENSON

Fall break started Oct. 14 and went through Oct. 18. There were many students who shared their fun and unique experiences.

Senior Brandon Linhart went on the Alternative Fall Break to Minnesota with six other students and Assistant Director of Leadership and Service Nick Knopik where they had lots of volunteer experience. They were able to work with the United Church of Christ (UCC) to host drag queen bingo on Saturday, and they helped clean up and do yard work at different houses on Sunday.

On Monday, Linhart and the rest of the group volunteered at Hiawatha Homes with adults with special needs. There, they played games and hung out with residents. They were also able to go to an escape room.

Linhart said his favorite part was drag queen bingo.

"It was such a fun experience. I have never felt more comfortable and loved by a group of people that I have never met," Linhart said.

Senior Nathan Cochnar got to relax and spend time with family and friends. He was also able to catch up on assignments.

"It's nice to have a short break from class as the school year picks up and gets more stressful," Cochnar said.

Junior Lexi Torok went to Roca Scary Farm with some friends over break. This included three haunted houses and a haunted hayrack ride.

Senior Mandi Laib

also attended Roca Scary Farm. Laib mentioned that the scariest part was the chainsaws.

"It was nice to spend an autumn night outside with some of my favorite people and get into the Halloween spirit," Laib said.

Junior Elsy Sierra stayed with a friend in Kansas City, Kansas and explored downtown. She also went to Worlds of Fun Haunt, where monsters are unleashed into the park.

Worlds of Fun Haunt offers haunted attractions, intense scare-zones, frightful live shows and more. Sierra said she also purchased a "blood bag," which is a sangria drink offered to individuals 21 years of age and older.

Sierra said it was a "fun and new experience."

Regular classes resume on Oct. 19.

CAPE hosts range of October events

ABRIANNA MILLER
Editor-in-Chief

The Campus Advocacy, Prevention and Education (CAPE) Project has many events planned for the rest of October, as it is Dating/Domestic Violence Awareness Month.

Running from Oct. 19 through the 21, CAPE will have people at the Beige Desk for students to sign a pledge against violence. CAPE members will be at the Beige Desk over the lunch hour.

On Oct. 20, the CAPE Project encourages everyone to wear purple to show their support for survivors of domestic violence. Students can tag the CAPE Project on Instagram (@doanecape-project) for a chance to be featured on their page.

Doane requires all new students to complete a CAPE course on Canvas.

"Failure to do so will prevent you from registering for classes. Reach out for any accommodations or alternative assignments," an email from the CAPE Project reads.

With course planning for the Spring right around the corner, be sure and complete this training before your class registration date.

If you are experiencing dating or domestic violence at this time, the CAPE Project encourages you to reach out to Hope Crisis Center at (877)388-4673 or Voices of Hope at (402)475-7273.

Any questions or concerns can be directed to the CAPE Project (cape-project@doane.edu) or Director of the CAPE Project Shyla Kallhoff (shyla.kallhoff@doane.edu).

Support victims during October

The month of October is dedicated to raising awareness for, supporting survivors of and reporting domestic abuse. Whether it is emotional, physical, mental or some other kind of abuse, domestic violence is something anyone regardless of age, gender, sexuality, etc. can experience.

Doane's Campus Advocacy, Prevention and Education (CAPE) Project is dedicated to ensuring everyone at Doane feels safe because there is never an acceptable time for any form of domestic violence to take place.

Signing the pledge against violence, which will be available at the Beige Desk from Oct. 19 through 21, means taking a stand against domestic violence and pushing for better help and assistance to those that have been affected by it.

Wearing purple on Oct. 20 means that we show support for all of those who have been affected so that their stories do not get overlooked.

Everyone can be affected by domestic violence, but not everyone is able to have their voices heard. That is what Dating/Domestic Violence Awareness Month is about—helping survivors make their voices and stories heard so that they do not go overlooked and unrepresented in the fight against domestic violence.

We encourage everyone to make the pledge and join in on showing support for domestic violence survivors in their endeavor to make their voices heard in a world where their stories often go unrecognized.

If you are in need of assistance or are a victim of dating/domestic violence, don't hesitate to reach out to the CAPE Project. More information about resources can be found at the bottom of page 5.

Hot takes; scary BOOK

A weekly rating of random things by Joey Winton

JOEY WINTON
Managing Editor

In keeping with the spookiness of October, this Hot Takes will be ranking the 11 stories that are in the first of the "Scary Stories to Tell in the Dark" books.

Each story is graded based on scare factor, how memorable it is and the image that appears alongside the story (all the art was done by Stephen Gammell and is a large part of why these books are so iconic).

Scare factor is rating how scary the story would have been to 12-year-old me because that's the target audience for these books. If the story would have kept me up at night or afraid to go to the bathroom because it was dark, it gains points.

How memorable the story is can be defined by how well-known it is. Whether it's because of the story itself or the drawing that accompanies it, if one or both of them result in it being a fairly well-known story, then it earns points.

The final element to be graded (and the least important comparatively) is the art that accompanies each story. The reason this one is so "unimportant" is because Stephen Gammell's work is incredible, and there isn't an objectively bad one of his drawings in the book. However, there are some that are better than others.

S Tier - These stories are the ones that I would read and then be afraid of any dark space for the next two weeks. Everything about the story is flawless, and the accompanying image is equally frightening.

A Tier - Maybe not as good overall, these ones are still plenty spooky, and you can't be faulted for liking them.

B Tier - These stories are just average. If you read all the good stories and still need more, these are the ones you'll tell. They're pretty unremarkable compared to the ones above so they reside here.

C Tier - I never really found these stories to be scary, nor did I super enjoy them. For whatever reason, they just never struck a chord with me, and they're kind of mediocre.

F Tier - If you like the stories here then I don't know what to tell you.

*Note: All rankings are final and no amount of hate/convincing will change my mind

S Tier: (The best)- The Big Toe, Harold, The Thing

A Tier: (Second Best)-

The Red Spot, The Drum

B Tier: (Average)- The Babysitter, The Hook

C Tier: (Below Average)- Green Ribbon, Room for One More, Bloody Fingers

F Tier: (Garbage)- The Viper

Again, let me say: no amount of debating with me will change my mind so please save yourself the time and energy, you have better things to do than argue with a college kid about tier lists.

Do you have a topic you want me to make a ranking of? Email me at joey.winton@doane.edu with the subject line Hot Takes and I might write about it!

Leadership skills challenged

ABRIANNA MILLER
Editor-in-Chief

All semester I have been planning Alternative Fall Break for Doane Serves. It finally happened over the weekend, and wow. It was an experience that I will never forget.

I spent so much time planning this trip that it was hard to believe that it was actually happening. I felt like the first couple days of break I was just walking around in a trance.

Then as I slowly started floating back down to Earth, I realized the importance and weight of what I had been working towards.

It became very clear to me that my leadership skills were going to be put to the test over the weekend. I was essentially in charge of a group of students, many of whom I didn't really know, for five days. That's terrifying.

I was stretched in ways that I didn't even know were possible. Suddenly I found myself switching plans last minute and being okay with things not going according to plan. That is a skill I have been working on for years, and for it to just suddenly happen was wild.

When plans were upturned or I had to think quickly on my feet, I didn't freak out and panic like I normally would- I was calm and in control. If you know me, you know that doesn't happen all that often.

It was a great experience for me to learn more about myself and the people around me. I definitely became a mom during the trip to Rochester, Minnesota, but I'm okay with that. That is how I was able to maintain some semblance of control during the trip in a way that wasn't damaging to others or the experience as a whole.

Alternative Fall Break was generally amazing. I loved every second (even the escape room). I can't wait for Spring to come so I can lead another group of awesome people on a service trip.

Honored to be part of special day

JOSE VILLALPANDO
News Editor

Before I get into it, I know that I'm going to sound like a broken record player for a second, having talked about the need of taking breaks in quite a few of my recent opinion pieces, but for fall break I was finally able to do this without having to care too much about my usual responsibilities.

Over the break, the most important thing that I had to do was take part in my brother's wedding as a groomsman. That was my sole responsibility, and I am extremely grateful that he gave me the opportunity to be a part of such an important event in his life.

Although we have different dads and there is a 15 year difference between us, there is still that unmistakable bond between brothers we have even if we don't always see eye-to-eye (or if I just decide to be annoying for whatever reason).

Then, since I'm mostly here in Crete and don't go home as often as I used to, I was able to meet a lot of my new sister-in-law's family. They helped make sure everything went smoothly for most of the wedding and were all around great people whenever I interacted with them.

The wedding was held at Gardens on Q, between Elm Creek and Holdrege, Nebraska, and there was no better place to have it. The scenery of the gardens of flowers paired with the beautiful weather made for an amazing ceremony for everyone in attendance. I'm just a little disappointed that I had never heard of the place before the wedding.

Either way, I'm glad that I was able to be a part of the wedding and wish nothing but the best for my brother and his wife. A final, massive congratulations to Dustin and Abigail Davis, they both deserve the world.

Reality of zoos is dark and unethical

ISABEL HENSON
Staff Writer

Although zoos provide a fun family experience for children and adults alike, they have proven to be very harmful to the animals they inhabit.

I've lived in Omaha most of my life, so naturally I've visited the zoo too many times to count.

When I was younger, the zoo was one of my favorite places to visit. Now that I understand the magnitude of these harmful circumstances, the zoo experience has been changed forever.

Zoos deprive animals of their natural habitat. They are taken out of the wild and placed into synthetic environments that fail to meet their natural standards of living. Oftentimes the parents of these animals are killed in order to take the animals out of the wild and transport them. Animals die during transportation. Animals are prone to disease and other harmful situations. Animals also do not have enough room to roam around and explore as they would in the wild.

Zoos rob animals of a natural social structure and proper companionship. They aren't allowed to choose their mates and friends. Zoos decide who they mate with or deny them access to mates entirely and opt for artificially-induced pregnancy. They do not receive the same mental and physical stimulation they otherwise would have. Their movements and behaviors are greatly limited. Animals may be placed with animals outside their species which they may not normally be around. This can cause fights and sanitary problems.

Animals held in zoos are constantly forced into close proximity with humans which is typically unusual for most species you'd find in the wild. People bang on the glass and taunt them. Most animals are a lot smarter than they are given credit for which amplifies all of these problems.

The life span of animals is greatly decreased when placed in captivity due to these factors. When animals get old, zoos often decide they are not worth the expense of keeping. They aren't as attractive to people as the babies, so they are killed or sold to hunting ranches, medical laboratories or poorly run roadside zoos.

Luckily, sanctuaries have become much more common, which provide a more natural and safe environment. They are provided with proper enrichment and socialization. They can live autonomously and happily.

Although Omaha has one of the best zoos in the country, there is a lot that goes unsaid. It is important to understand what goes on inside of the cages rather than what it looks like on the outside.

Revisiting an album

GAVIN STRAUSS
Photographer

Over break, I listened to a lot of music while I was driving, and I wanted to take the time to review an album that I believe is a masterpiece. I'm talking about Juice WRLD's "Goodbye and Good Riddance." It was released in May of 2018 and consisted of 17 tracks, including his most-listened track, Lucid Dreams, which has over 2 billion listens on Spotify.

This triple-platinum album tells an emotional story beginning with a heartbroken Juice chasing a girl who broke his heart. Broken up over the lost love, he reaches out but is met with anger and hostility. To me, the way that he expressed this brokenness was super profound and really forced me to experience that sadness.

He goes through an emotional rollercoaster trying to numb the pain but eventually realizes he'll be okay. Throughout each song you experience a part of the healing process, and it almost delivers a sentiment that one would have when being dumped.

Finally, things are going well and his ex decides to reach out. Having realized he no longer needed her, he returned to her the treatment he had received when she betrayed him. Although throughout the album there's a lot of sadness and pain, the final outcome of the story left me feeling very empowered and recovered after this whirlwind of an album.

The story is told so clearly and artfully, and the music makes you truly feel the significance of every emotion in every song. I'm super glad that I decided to give this album another listen, and I plan to add the tracks to my routine playlists.

Volleyball celebrates senior night

The Tigers snag a home victory in four sets

CASSIE KESSLER
Sports Editor

During the last week, the Volleyball team hosted two teams at home on Wednesday and Saturday. Although they were unable to overcome

College of Saint Mary (CSM), they were able to secure the win over Briar Cliff University.

The week started with the 13-ranked Saint Mary Flames paying a visit to Haddix. This provided Doane with the opportunity to perform the upset, and they put up quite a bit of a battle despite being defeated.

Doane opened the match with a 6-0 run to take a quick lead. CSM would not leave this unanswered and turned the first set into a rather back and forth game. It came down to the wire and the Flames narrowly escaped with a 25-22 victory.

The second set was a mirror image of the first, with the final score being the exact same. In the third, Doane fell slightly behind and would not close the deficit, losing 20-25 and dropping the match in straight sets.

A redemption opportunity presented itself on Saturday when Doane hosted Briar Cliff on senior night. The first set jumped out to a slow start, but once the Tigers took the lead, they never looked back.

Doane led almost the entirety of the first set and capped it off with a 5-0 run to win the first 25-15. But kicking off the night with a victory wasn't the only achievement in the first. Senior Jaime Renshaw completed the major feat of moving into fifth on the all-time career assists list.

After such a monumental accomplishment, the Tigers capitalized on the energy. The second set was a bit closer and had the Chargers start with a fast lead that would be quickly diminished, and the Tigers won the second 25-18.

The third set was a bit of a letdown. It came down to the wire, with the match tied 23-23. A service error followed by a kill from the Chargers allowed them to extend the match for four sets.

However, Doane would not let the comeback be complete. The Tigers came onto the court with all guns blazing and won the fourth 25-20, finishing senior night the best way possible.

After the game, seniors Kristen Bures, Simonie Mendenhall, Ally Wallace, Cassidy Tompkin and Renshaw were honored, along with senior student assistant Morgan Burnett for their years of dedication to the team.

The Volleyball team hits the road this week and will be headed down the street to Seward, Nebraska on Oct. 19 to face off against Concordia University.

Soccer faces battles on the road

CASSIE KESSLER
Sports Editor

Last Wednesday, both the Men's and Women's Soccer teams were in Hastings, Nebraska taking on the Hastings College Broncos. Neither team was able to walk away with the victory, but the Women's team came back home on Saturday to redeem themselves.

The Men's team was at quite the disadvantage against Hastings after losing sophomore Brody Mueller to a red card about two thirds of the way through the first half. Despite going out early, Mueller led the Tigers with two shot attempts.

Hastings grabbed both of their goals in the first half, the first coming just ten minutes after Mueller was ejected. The second goal came courtesy of a penalty kick after Doane was called for a foul just before halftime. The game ended with the Tigers losing 0-2.

The Women's team was also unable to find success on the road. Hastings came out swinging and scored their first goal in the first ten minutes of the game. Their second goal came just a few minutes later, and the Broncos led 2-0 at the half.

After returning from the half, freshman McKenna Rathbun took the ball on a fast break and scored Doane's first and only goal of the game. Things fell apart for the Tigers after this, and they allowed four goals, losing the game 1-6.

However, the Women's team had the opportunity to flip the script after returning home on Saturday to host College of Saint Mary (CSM). Doane was quick to strike in this game after sophomore Brooklyn Mercurio's pass found freshman Karime Maldonado to complete the goal.

Doane grabbed their second goal just before the half off a deflection from Hastings' goalkeeper. Freshman Celeste Galvan was ready for the rebound and put the ball in the goal off a header.

The Tigers did not let up after the half. A throw-in from junior Denise Gomez made its way to the goal box where senior Michaela Thompson completed the effort and scored Do-ane's third goal.

Despite being able to score right before the game ended, the Flames could not complete the comeback. Doane held off CSM and grabbed the home victory of 3-1.

Both Soccer teams will travel to Fremont, Nebraska to take on Midland University on Oct. 19 before returning home on Saturday to face off against Dordt University.

Football loses while away

Doane falls against Hastings

CASSIE KESSLER
Sports Editor

On Saturday, the Football team was in Hastings, Nebraska to battle things out against the Hastings College Broncos. Although it was a slow first half for both teams, Doane would end up falling on the road.

The first quarter had neither team scoring. In the second quarter, Hastings got a major stop on a Doane fourth down and only took five plays from there to get the ball to the endzone. The half ended with the Broncos up 7-0.

Despite a scoreless first half, there was a major accomplishment for the Tigers during that half. Freshman Kelen Meyer punted the ball 86 yards, which broke the standing record for longest punt, set in 2007.

To start the third quarter, it was Meyer who got Doane on the board with a 26-yard field goal. However, Hastings had quite the answer for this and scored another touchdown off a 59-yard throw.

Doane was down 3-14 at the start of the fourth quarter and in desperate need of some kind of score. Their needs were soon answered by freshman Cruz Kirwan, who threw a 25-yard pass to freshman Colby Frazier for a touchdown.

The Tigers decided to test their luck after this pass and attempted a two-point conversion. Things did not pay off, and Doane was held to 9-14, which would end up being the final score of the game.

The Football team's next game will be at home on Oct. 2 against Northwestern College.
